Re: Transferring Holy Ground to Carleton

I have done some checking and the story I mentioned about the excess dirt going to Carleton is correct.

The excavation contractor on the St. Olaf project was required by contract to removed the excess dirt (10,000 Cu. Yds.) from the construction site. On a construction project at Carleton they were in need of that same amount of fill. The excavation contractor doing our work is not with the same firm that is doing Carleton's work, but the project manager at St. Olaf is the brother of the contractor at Carleton. The obvious solution was to haul the excess St. Olaf dirt to Carleton.
